

Warning:
These lures are
actual size.

NOW on the Shelves

Pradco now offers a Super Magnum Series Zara Spook (at left) made of wood replete with built-in rattles. This 8-inch, 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ -ouncer casts like a missile and is a mouthful for any fish. Pradco has also re-introduced the Giant Creek Chub Pikie in wood (below). It's also 8 inches long, is made from buoyant wood, so it floats and dives. Suffice to say, your next surface strike on these babies won't be delivered by a "dink."

Rapala offers a series of big surface swimmers in the Shad Rap family as do a host of other manufacturers who make lures in both plastic and wood. The wooden lures, though, seem to have an appeal to both fishermen and fish.

Believe the
"big bait-big fish" theory?

Tie on a big wooden swimming plug
and you will.

Big stripers
fuel the rage over big wood
plugs.